The Evolution Lives On
by Sally A. Northrup

On December 11, 1985, the Evolution of Psychotherapy Conference convened—a meeting called by some a landmark event in the history of psychotherapy. Counselors, physicians, nurses, social workers, psychologists, psychiatrists, ministers and others from the mental health profession gathered in Phoenix, Arizona on December 11-15, 1985 for this memorable event.

In the Wednesday, December 11, 1985 issue of The Phoenix Gazette, Jeffrey K. Zeig, Director of The Milton H. Erickson Foundation and organizer of the conference, was quoted as saying, "Just as Woodstock (New York) will always be remembered by the flower children of the 1960s, Phoenix will be equally historic to psychotherapists of the 1980s. Nothing of this magnitude has ever been attempted before.'

Speaking about “magnitude” was certainly apt. The conference was sold out by early September. There were 7,000 professionals in attendance, and at least 29 countries were represented. Participants came from Australia, Sweden, England, Greece, Italy, Japan, Canada, Holland and Ireland, to name a few. They came to experience the work of some of the greatest names in psychotherapy—names that have been studied in books and heard in lecture halls throughout the world.

Joined together for the purpose of expounding their ideas and views on psychotherapy were Aaron Beck, Bruno Bettelheim, Murray Bowen, Albert Ellis, Mary and Robert Goulding, Jay Haley, Ronald Laing, Arnold Lazarus, Cloe Madanes, Judd Marmor, James Masterson, Rollo May, Salvador Minuchin, Zerka Moreno, Miriam and Erving Polster, Carl Rogers, Ernest Rossi, Virginia Satir, Thomas Szasz, Paul Watzlawick, Carl Whitaker, Lewis Wolberg, Joseph Wolpe and Jeffrey K. Zeig.

Sophie Freud, Dieter Baumann and Margo Adler, grandchildren of the late Sigmund Freud, Carl Jung and Alfred Adler held a special panel discussion on the personal lives of their grandfathers and families. Bruno Bettelheim discussed Freud’s Vienna at a second panel which also featured Baumann and Adler. These were historic sessions with a personal and spontaneous air.

The conference itself included workshops, live demonstrations, conversation hours, topical and case discussion panels and addresses, through which these great minds exhibited their skills, imparted their philosophies and communicated their ideas in ways that were unique, controversial and intriguing. Some of the topics and demonstrations included "Dreams," "Behavior Analysis," "Group Therapy," "Social Anxiety" and "Schizophrenia."

Another special event at the conference was an impromptu session led by Virginia Satir and Mary Goulding in which 3,000 participants turned out to discuss "World Peace." Letters supporting world peace were written and copies sent to both President Reagan and Mr. Gorbachev.

Sponsored by The Milton H. Erickson Foundation, with Director Jeffrey K. Zeig, Ph.D., Administrative Director Sherron S. Peters, a staff of seven dedicated people, a well-rounded Steering Committee and several hardworking volunteers, The Evolution of Psychotherapy Conference came off with smoothness, professionalism and ingenuity. It was truly a tremendous success with high praises from speakers and participants alike:

“What we saw was mastery, caring, curative techniques that were, of course very different and were also very effective. That to me was the richness of the conference. I want therapists and the public to know this richness of choice exists!”

—Mary and Bob Goulding

“The Phoenix Experience has produced a ‘high’ from which I have yet to come down.”

—Arnold Lazarus

“...the conference was a great success.”

—Rollo May

“I am impressed by the smoothness of the conference.”

—Salvador Minuchin

“I am still reverberating with pleasure about the conference.”

—Erving Polster

"I don't know how on earth you did it—but you did—and gloriously."
—Ernest Rossi

"I look back on the Phoenix experience with some awe as well as pleasure. I can't get over the fact that over seven thousand people wanted to attend."
—Carl Rogers

"I congratulate you on your tour de force of organization."
—Joseph Wolpe

"It was a beautifully organized meeting."
—Jay Haley

"I want to thank you for having developed and provided what was one of the most interesting professional experiences of my life."
—Aaron T. Beck

"I am delighted that I had a chance to participate in the superb meeting you had organized."
—Thomas Szasz

"...the entire conference was a miracle of flawless organization."
—Paul Watzlawick

"I thoroughly enjoyed the conference..."
—Albert Ellis

"I want to commend you and your staff on what was the best planned and executed meeting I have attended in approximately 25 years of conferences and meetings."
—Richard E. Hardy, Ed.D.

"I would like to express my appreciation for the fine conference arranged by the Foundation. You have set a standard for conferences of this kind for years to come."
—David K. Reynolds, Ph.D.

"Congratulations on successfully putting on a great conference. It will be talked about for years to come."
—Margot B. Kopley, Psy.D.

"The conference was a most exciting experience for me. I would like to add my word of thanks to all those who put forth the energy and had the foresight and confidence to accomplish the event."
—Judith Byrley, M.A.

"It was a most interesting and exciting time. Thank you for the opportunity to learn from this wonderful group of knowledgeable people."
—Miriam C. Burhans, ACSW

The Evolution of Psychotherapy Conference imparted new experiences and a greater understanding of psychotherapy. To the many who were there, this was not merely a great conference, but the beginning of a greater awareness. In all our hearts and all our minds the "Evolution" will surely live on.

ERICKSONIAN STORYTELLING

as told by
LEN BERGANTINO, ED.D., PH.D.

The Teaching Tales, as Dr. Erickson told them, in a non-stop way, over a long period of time, working almost exclusively at the unconscious level, helps therapists:

1) access their unconscious; 2) feed, nurture and build a personality with those otherwise inaccessible to treatment; 3) restore sensory integration; and 4) stabilize dis-ease free states of being in self and patient. These Ericksonian techniques can be integrated into the therapist's method of choice.

2nd Sat. of each month, 10 a.m.-12 noon — $40 Contact: LEN BERGANTINO, ED.D., PH.D. 450 North Bedford Drive, Suite 300 Beverly Hills, California 90210 U.S.A. "Ericksonian Approaches to Psychotherapy."

... In Beautiful Vancouver
During Expo 86 ...

With the increase of interest in the world of Milton H. Erickson during the last few years, a need has arisen to provide comprehensive, in depth and accurate training about his methodology and interventions with families and individuals. The workshop leaders have had extensive personal contact and training with Dr. Erickson and are included in the invited faculty of the International Congress of Ericksonian Approaches to Hypnosis and Therapy. The Lanktons' designed this workshop to build upon and go beyond the structures of their books: The Answer Within: A Clinical Framework of Ericksonian Hypnotherapy and Enhancement and Intervention in the Family. This training takes place on the wooded campus of the University of British Columbia, an area of spectacular scenery and magnificent beaches. Expo '86 is 20 minutes away. Housing on campus with excellent meals is included.

Workshop eligibility: Masters or Doctorate degree in the helping professions.

Continuing Education Credits applied for, for Psychologists, Medical Doctors and Dentists in the United States and Canada.

CLINICAL APPLICATION
A Six-Day Summer Hypnosis Residential for Health Professionals in Beautiful Vancouver Canada During Expo '86 World Fair

The Six Day Hypnotherapy Intensive with Stephen Gilligan, Ph.D. is called "Therapeutic Trances: Generative Approaches to Ericksonian Hypnotherapy." Dr. Gilligan's programs, with its demonstrations, exercises, clinical discussions, and group inductions is appreciated throughout North America as an excellent training in the subtleties of the methods of Milton Erickson. It provides an effective balance of conceptual, vicarious and experiential learning that brings Ericksonian hypnotherapists back, time and time again, with renewed zest. The program includes trained assistants to aid new practitioners, special interest groups and a variety of evening presentations on medical applications and professional specialties. It takes place on the wooded campus of the University of British Columbia, so you may enjoy the spectacular scenery and magnificent beaches. Expo '86 is 20 minutes away. Housing on campus with excellent meals is included. A four-day Hypnosis Supervision Program with Stephen Gilligan follows, June 25-28.
Workshop eligibility: Masters or Doctorate degree in the helping professions.

June 17-22, 1986
Vancouver, Canada
This tuition is based on double occupancy and includes room and board.

BOOK REVIEW
Experiencing Erickson: An Introduction to the Man and His Work, by Jeffrey Zeig with transcript of Milton Erickson.
New York: Brunner/Mazel, 1985 (181 pp. plus ix pp., $25.00).

Experiencing Erickson is subtitled, “An Introduction to the Man and His Work.” Yet it is not so much an introduction in the formal, academic sense of an introductory text, as an introduction in the informal, social sense of “Allow me to introduce you...” The book is written in an easy, informal style appropriate to its subject matter. For it is above all, as its title suggests, a personal book sharing Dr. Zeig’s personal experience of Erickson and painting a vivid portrait of Erickson as teacher, as therapist, and as well—Erickson...the family man, the practical joker, the maverick.

The first half of the book consists of three loosely connected essays by Zeig. The first essay focuses on Erickson’s personal style and creative individuality, sketching some points of connection between Erickson’s personal life and professional work. The second essay sketches Erickson’s approach, stressing its fundamental simplicity and thoroughgoing commonsense. The third essay illustrates this approach (“commonsense one-step-removed”) through a series of anecdotes drawn from the personal therapy and clinical supervision Zeig received from Erickson, and from cases observed or reported, including a number reported by the patient or student on the receiving end of Erickson’s interventions. The second half of the book is a transcript, with minimal commentary, of “an introduction to the man and his work.” Zeig’s own first three days on the receiving end and his first personal encounter with Erickson.

Although Zeig explicitly sets out “to portray Erickson as I perceived him—a remarkable human being first, and a master therapist second,” Erickson is never portrayed as a magician—quite the contrary. The “remarkable” personal qualities behind his successful interventions are revealed to be in the realm of sheer hard work, perseverance, flexibility, unyielding self-discipline, painstaking self-training, meticulous observation, and undeterred commonsense.

Zeig makes it more difficult than ever before to categorize a man so difficult to categorize. His presentation of Erickson is not tailored to fit any Procrustean bed of some preconceived idea of Erickson or of his approach. The pieces that refuse to fit into the picture are left alongside the others, just as the therapeutic successes are juxtaposed with failures. This is a demystifying book, and all the more powerfully so, in that it makes no explicit attempt to demystify, like a portrait in oils showing its subject in a most flattering light and yet, if one studies the features closely, faithfully revealing every little weakness of character in its lines.

The reader looking for new cases or new Erickson stories may be somewhat disappointed, although there are a significant number, but what will be found instead is a view of Erickson from a different angle. Significantly, this is a most Ericksonian angle—the perspective of the listener in whom responses are elicited. Erickson often instructed his students, “Don’t watch me, watch the patient,” and Zeig affords us a unique opportunity to understand Erickson by doing just that.
