Faculty

Ellyn Bader, PhD

Psychologist in private practice and an internationally recognized expert in couples therapy training, Dr. Bader is Co-Director of The Couples Institute in Menlo Park, California. For the past 20 years she has conducted professional training programs in couples therapy in the US, Europe, South America and Australia.

Dr. Bader is past-president of the International Transactional Analysis Association and a recipient of the Clark Vincent Award for an outstanding literary contribution for the field of marital therapy from the California Association of Marriage and Family Therapists. She and her husband, Peter Pearson, PhD, have co-authored, In Quest of the Mythical Mate: A Developmental Approach to Diagnosis and Treatment in Couples Therapy. Their latest book, Tell Me No Lies: How to Face the Truth and Build an Honest Marriage, helps couples recognize the essential ingredients in flourishing marriages.

Helen Fisher, PhD

Dr. Fisher is one of this country's most prominent anthropologists. Prior to becoming a Research Professor at Rutgers University, she was a Research Associate at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. Dr. Fisher has conducted extensive research on the evolution, expression, and science of love, and her two most recent books, The First Sex: The Natural Talents of Women and How They Changed the World and Anatomy of Love, were New York Times Notable Books. She is also the author of Why We Love: The Nature and Chemistry of Romantic Love and The Sex Contract: The Evolution of Human Behavior.

Dr. Fisher is currently Chief Scientific Advisor to Chemistry.com where she has collaborated in the development of their Chemistry Profile™ personality assessment and matching system. Using data on patterns of romantic attraction and marriage found on this Internet dating/relationship site, she is writing her fifth book, on why you fall in love with one person rather than another.

Louis Cozolino, PhD

Dr. Cozolino is a psychotherapist, Professor of Psychology at Pepperdine University, and Adjunct Professor at the University of California, Los Angeles. He is the author of The Neuroscience of Psychotherapy: The Making of a Therapist and The Neuroscience of Human Relationships. He is also the author and co-author of many articles and book chapters, including “Sensation, Perception and Cognition” (with Daniel Siegel) in The Comprehensive Textbook of Psychiatry.

Dr. Cozolino has diverse clinical and research interests and holds degrees in philosophy and theology, in addition to his doctoral in clinical psychology. He has conducted empirical research in schizophrenia, child abuse, and the long-term impact of stress. Recently, his interests have turned to a synthesis of the biobehavioral sciences and psychotherapy. He maintains a clinical and consulting practice in Los Angeles.

Steven Frankel, PhD, JD

ABPP certified clinical and forensic psychologist, as well as attorney at law, Dr. Frankel has been on the faculty of the University of Southern California for over 35 years and is currently a Clinical Professor of Psychology. He has served as an Adjunct Professor of Law at Loyola Law School (Los Angeles) and is now an Adjunct Professor at Golden Gate University School of Law.

Dr. Frankel has taught courses on healthcare policy, regulation of healthcare practice and mental disorder and the law. Author of over 50 articles and book chapters, he has won the USC Award for Teaching Excellence early in his academic career and is nationally recognized for his expertise, sense of humor and ability to bring his course material to life.
Otto Kernberg, MD

Dr. Kernberg is Director of the Personality Disorders Institute at The New York Presbyterian Hospital, Westchester Division and Professor of Psychiatry at the Weill Medical College of Cornell University. Dr. Kernberg is Past-President of the International Psychoanalytic Association. He is also Training and Supervising Analyst of the Columbia University Center for Psychoanalytic Training and Research. In the past, Dr. Kernberg served as Director of the C.F. Menninger Memorial Hospital, Supervising and Training Analyst of the Topeka Institute for Psychoanalysis, and Director of the Psychotherapy Research Project of the Menninger Foundation. From 1976 to 1995 he was Associate Chairman and Medical Director of The New York Hospital Cornell Medical Center, Westchester Division.

Dr. Kernberg is the author of 12 books and co-author of 11 others. His most recent books are Aggressivity, Narcissism and Self-Destructiveness in the Psychotherapeutic Relationship: New Developments in the Psychopathology and Psychotherapy of Severe Personality Disorders; Contemporary Controversies in Psychoanalytic Theory, Techniques and Their Applications; and Psychotherapy for Borderline Personality: Focusing on Object Relations.

Susan Johnson, EdD

A registered psychologist, Susan Johnson EdD is Professor of Clinical Psychology at the University of Ottawa, Canada; Director of the Ottawa Couples and Family Institute and the Center for Emotionally Focused Therapy; and Research Professor in the Marital and Family Therapy Program at Alliant University in San Diego. Her book, The Practice of Emotionally Focused Couples Therapy: Creating Connection, is the basic text on EFT for couples.

Dr. Johnson is the recipient of several awards; among them are Fellow of the American Psychological Association, Research in Family Therapy Award from the American Family Therapy Academy, and Outstanding Contribution to the Field of Marriage and Family Award from the American Association of Marriage and Family Counseling.

Peter Pearson, PhD

Co-Founder of the Couples Institute, Menlo Park, California, Peter Pearson has, for over 20 years, been specializing in helping people transform their relationships. His fascination with human behavior and his own experience as a Fuller Brush salesman inspired him to create amazing, innovative techniques that are revolutionizing sales training. He transforms timid beginners into confident sales performers and shows seasoned pros how to exceed their wildest dreams.

Dr. Pearson is an engaging, dynamic expert in leading psychology workshops. His powerful presentations include practical skills, advanced techniques in regulating difficult emotions and entertaining vignettes from his own experience to demonstrate how some impasses are managed. Audiences often clamor for follow-up advanced workshops. He is the author of numerous articles, two books (The Mythical Mate: A Developmental Approach to Diagnosis and Treatment in Couples Therapy, Tell Me No Lies) and a co-author of the "Mental Edge MLM" CD set with Randy Gage. He was also a Consulting Associate Professor at Stanford University for 15 years.

Esther Perel, MA, LMFT

Born and raised in Belgium, Esther Perel holds degrees from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and Lesley College. She was trained and supervised in family therapy by Dr. Salvador Minuchin and serves on the faculties of the Department of Psychiatry, New York University Medical School, and International Trauma Studies Program, in affiliation with Columbia University.

Ms. Perel is the author of the widely acclaimed book, Mating in Captivity: Reconciling the Erotic and the Domestic (2006) – published by Harper Collins in North America and translated into 20 languages. She has written numerous articles and chapters about intermarriage, the families of Holocaust survivors, cross cultural couples and cultural and religious identity. Ms. Perel’s innovative strategies have won her an international clientele of non-profit organizations, foundations, schools, community groups and corporations. She is a member of the American Family Therapy Academy and the Society of Sex Therapy and Research.
Daniel Siegel, MD

Associate clinical professor of psychiatry at the UCLA School of Medicine, where he is on the faculty of the Center for Culture, Brain and Development. Director of the Mindsight Institute, an educational organization that focuses on how the development of insight and empathy within individuals, families and communities can be enhanced by examining the interface of human relationships and basic biological processes.

Dr. Siegel is the author of the internationally acclaimed text, The Developing Mind: Toward a Neurobiology of Interpersonal Experience, which introduces the idea of “interpersonal neurobiology” as a way of defining the mind and mental well-being. This approach is further explored in the Norton Series on Interpersonal Neurobiology, of which Dr. Siegel is Founding Editor. His book, Parenting from the Inside Out: How a Deeper Self-Understanding Can Help You Raise Children Who Thrive, explores the application of this newly emerging view of the mind, the brain and human relationships to families. He is currently finishing two texts, Mindsight and The Mindful Brain in Psychotherapy, which will expand these applications into the arenas of everyday life and psychotherapy.

Stan Tatkin, PsyD, MFT

Stan Tatkin, PsyD, is an assistant clinical professor at UCLA Geffen School of Medicine. He has published several articles on couples therapy using attachment theory and principles of arousal and affect regulation. Dr. Tatkin is a contributing editor for Allan Schore’s A Reader’s Guide to Affect Regulation and Neurobiology, and is collaborating with Marion Solomon on a new book entitled, The Loving/Warring Brain: How Romance Starts and Ends. Dr. Tatkin was a primary inpatient therapist at the John Bradshaw Center, was clinical director of Charter Hospital’s intensive outpatient drug and alcohol program, and is a former president of the California Association of Marriage and Family Therapists, Ventura County chapter. Trained in developmental object relations, his private practice specialized in the treatment of adolescents and adults with personality disorders. His interests have since branched out toward psycho-neurobiological theories of human attachment, integrating principles of early mother-infant attachment with adult romantic relationships.

Bessel van der Kolk, MD

Bessel van der Kolk has been active as a clinician, researcher and teacher in the area of posttraumatic stress and related phenomena since the 1970s. His work integrates developmental, biological, psychodynamic and interpersonal aspects of the impact of trauma and its treatment. His book Psychological Trauma was the first integrative text on the subject, painting the far ranging impact of trauma on the entire person and the range of therapeutic issues which need to be addressed for recovery. Dr. van der Kolk was co-principal investigator of the DSM IV Field Trials for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. His current research is on how trauma affects memory processes and brain imaging studies of PTSD.

Dr. van der Kolk is past President of the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies, Professor of Psychiatry at Boston University Medical School, and Medical Director of the Trauma Center at HRI Hospital in Brookline, Massachusetts. His book, co-edited with Alexander McFarlane and Lars Weisaeth, Traumatic Stress: The Effects of Overwhelming Experience on Mind, Body, and Society remains the classic work on the subject.

The Erickson Foundation organizes International Congresses on Ericksonian Approaches to Hypnosis and Psychotherapy. These meetings have been held in Phoenix in 1980, 1983, 1986, 1992, 1999, 2001, 2004 and 2007; in San Francisco in 1988 and in Los Angeles in 1994. In 1993, the Foundation sponsored the Brief Therapy Conference in Orlando. The second Brief Therapy Conference was held in December 1996 (San Francisco); the third was held in 1998 (New York City); the fourth in December 2002 (Orlando, Florida); the fifth Brief Therapy was held in December 2003 (San Francisco); December 2006 (Anaheim, CA). The next will be held in San Diego in December 2008. Each was attended by 1,200—2,000 professionals.

In the intervening years, the Foundation organizes national seminars. The four-day seminars are limited to approximately 450 attendees, and they emphasize skill development in hypnotherapy. The 1981, 1982, 1984 and 1997 seminars were held in San Francisco, Dallas, Los Angeles and Phoenix, respectively. In 1989, the Foundation celebrated its 10th Anniversary with a training seminar in Phoenix.

The Milton H. Erickson Foundation organized the first Evolution of Psychotherapy Conference in 1985 in Phoenix. It was hailed as a landmark conference in the history of psychotherapy. Faculty included Beck, the late Bruno Bettelheim, the late Murray Bowen, the late Albert Ellis, M. Goulding, the late Robert Goulding, the late Jay Haley and Ronald D. Laing, Lazarus, Madanes, Marmor, Masterson, the late Rollo May, Minuchin, Moreno, E. Polster, the late Miriam Polster, the late Carl Rogers, Rossi, the late Virginia Satir, Szasz, Waitzkin, the late Carl Whitaker, the late Lewis Wolberg, the late Joseph Wolpe and Zeig.

The second conference was repeated in 1990 in Anaheim, Calif., with a similar faculty including Budge, Glasser, Hillman, the late Helen Singer Kaplan, Lowen, Meichenbaum and the late Mazi Selvini Palazzoli. Keynote addresses were given by the late Viktor Frankl and Betty Friedan.

The Erickson Foundation distributes recordings of lectures by Milton H. Erickson from the 1950s and 1960s, when Erickson’s voice was strong. Releases in our audio series are announced in the Newsletter.

The Erickson Foundation organizes national conferences, and the Intensive Programs at these conferences are announced in the Foundation’s Newsletter. The following books are published by and can be ordered through Taylor & Francis Group, 7625 Empire Dr, Florence, KY 41042. Toll free phone: 800-634-7064.

Daniel Siegel, MD
The Mindful Brain:
Reflection and Attunement in the Cultivation of Well-Being
Mindful awareness has been scientifically proven to promote social, emotional and physical well-being, and is an effective part of treatment to prevent relapse of drug addiction and chronic depression. Mindfulness also enhances empathy, and in that way may promote healthy interpersonal relationships. This ancient practice of being fully aware in the present moment, without grasping onto judgments, has been found in cultures around the world. At the heart of this proposal is that the state of mindful awareness harnesses specific social and emotional circuits in the brain. The development of these "resonance circuits" creates an integrated brain state that creates the benefits of improved immune and cardiac function, enhanced empathy and self-understanding, and a deeper connection to oneself and others.

Educational Objectives:
1) To list the scientifically established benefits of mindful awareness practice.
2) To list the different facets of mindfulness that can promote well-being in relationships.

Bessel van der Kolk, MD
Frontiers of Treating Trauma
Starting with a review of recent studies on the neurobiology of trauma, Dr. van der Kolk will examine the utility of approaches from the fields of hypnosis, body oriented therapies and EMDR, both with research data and videotaped clinical interventions. The integration of these approaches during different stages of treatment will be discussed.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe three new approaches in the treatment of trauma.
2) To describe the differences between how ordinary memories are stored contrasted with the memory processing of traumatic experiences.
WORKSHOP 1

Assessment of Couples
Otto Kernberg, MD

This workshop will explore the assessment of the functioning of couples in their sexual life, their daily interactions, and their individual and jointly arrived at value systems. The techniques of this assessment, the combination of couples' and individual partners' interviews will be followed by an overview of alternative therapeutic strategies.

Educational Objectives:
1) Given a couple, carry out a comprehensive diagnostic evaluation of chronic conflicts.
2) Given a case, indicate specific, alternative approaches.

WORKSHOP 2

Effects of Stress and Trauma on Relationships: Principles
Bessel van der Kolk, MD

The majority of people who seek psychiatric care have histories of trauma, chaos or neglect. Advances in the neurosciences, attachment research and in information processing show how brain function is shaped by experience, and that life itself can continually transform perception and biology. Overwhelming experiences alter the capacity for self-regulation and memory processing due to changes in sub-cortical, i.e., “unconscious” levels of the brain. The memory imprints of the trauma(s) are held in bodily states and physical action patterns, which causes the entire human organism to automatically react to current experiences as a replay of the past. This workshop includes: Affective neuroscience for thoughtful clinicians; Introduction to the neurobiology of attachment, the nature of the threat response, attention, exploration and concentration, as well as lessons from neuro-managing and psychophysiology.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe how trauma shapes brain function.
2) Given a client suffering from trauma, design a treatment using neuro-management.

WORKSHOP 3

Attachment as a Guide to Couples Therapy
Susan Johnson, EdD

This workshop will outline the use of attachment theory in the assessment of relationship problems, setting of treatment goals, creation of change events and moment to moment interventions in emotionally focused couples therapy.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the attachment perspective on couple problems and change processes.
2) To list three specific attachment moments, moves and interventions.

Otto Kernberg, MD

Love and Aggression in Couples Therapy

This presentation will explore the expression of basic conflicts between love and aggression in a couple’s sexual life, their daily interactions, and their value systems. The analysis of chronic couples’ conflicts will be followed by the outline of an essentially psychoanalytic approach to their diagnostic assessment, and the characteristics of analytic and supportive strategies of treatment.

Educational Objectives:
1) Given a couple, diagnose the dominant areas of conscious and unconscious conflicts.
2) To describe the essential characteristics of an analytic technique in couples therapy.

9:45 AM - 12:15 PM

WORKSHOP 4

Effects of Stress and Trauma on Relationships: Treatment

Bessel van der Kolk, MD

Effective treatment of post-traumatic problems needs to include addressing the imprint of trauma on the physical experience of the self as helpless and in danger. Recovery needs to incorporate dealing with defensive efforts that helped ensure survival, incorporate physical experiences that contradict feelings and sensations associated with helplessness and disconnection, as well as an effective way of integrating fragmented memories of trauma. Experiencing physical mastery (as in yoga and specific body based techniques) often is necessary to initiate new ways of perceiving reality and promote new behavior patterns. Helping the organism to bring the traumatic experience to an end is the goal of treatment. Workshop includes: Assessment and treatment planning; Recognition and treatment of trauma-based action patterns and dissociative responses; Completing of incomplete trauma responses; Words, actions, and relationships in the treatment of learned helplessness and dissociation; Specific techniques that address affect regulation, the integration of dissociated aspects of experience, overcoming helplessness, and the re-integration of human conditions.

Educational Objectives:
1) To list three effective techniques to treat trauma.
2) To describe two specific techniques to overcome helplessness.

9:45 AM - 12:15 PM

WORKSHOP 5

A Developmental Approach to Couples Therapy: An Introduction to Attachment and Differentiation in Couples Therapy

Ellyn Bader, PhD

Using a developmental lens is a powerful way to lead couples to make sustained change. Learn how developmental principles can help you assess what is wrong and then guide and shape your treatment decisions. Videotapes and clinical case examples will be used throughout the workshop to demonstrate how to challenge symbiosis, facilitate differentiation and build the capacities to sustain intimacy.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe a central dynamic that leads to affairs.
2) Given a couple, describe when to intervene at an intra-psychic level, and when to intervene systemically.
The Technique of Analytic Couples Therapy
Otto Kernberg, MD

This workshop will summarize the overall technical principles of interpretive intervention in sessions of couples therapy. Economics and dynamic criteria of intervention, analysis of transference and countertransference will be explored together with the setting up of basic frames for the interaction in the sessions. Clinical examples will illustrate these approaches.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the application of psychodynamic techniques to couple therapy.
2) To describe the specific conditions under which limit setting may become necessary.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS 4

Susan Johnson, EdD
The Science of Love:
Lessons for the Couple Therapist

Love is no longer a mystery. Attachment Theory and research offers the couple therapist a systematic understanding of the emotional drama of relationship distress, a compass in the defining moves and moments of love. With such a guide, we can now help couples heal their relationships and create relationships that heal.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the Attachment Theory perspective on adult love.
2) To describe the implications of this perspective for couple therapy.

Key Concepts from Differentiation Theory That Influence Your Work
Ellyn Bader, PhD and Esther Perel, MA, MFT

Educational Objective: To name the key concepts from Differentiation Theory.

The Treatment of Personal and Relationship Trauma in EFT
Susan Johnson, EdD

This workshop will offer a theoretical and clinical orientation to the treatment of trauma, personal and relational, in couples therapy. The regulation of emotion and the healing power of attachment events will be emphasized.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the use of Emotionally Focused Therapy.
2) To describe the role of the reconciliation process for relational trauma.
WORKSHOP 8
Differentiation:
The Route to Intimacy and Vitality
Ellyn Bader, PhD

Despite their expressed desire for change, many couples rerun repetitive negative cycles. Partners frequently demand intimacy, while refusing to be intimate themselves. Their defensive interactions will dominate the relationship and lead to traumatic interactions, affairs, and other relationship ruptures. Learn how to use differentiation to breathe new life into combative and emotionally distant relationships.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the use of attachment based and differentiation based interventions in couples therapy
2) To describe the use of differentiation based interventions in conflict avoidant relationships.

WORKSHOP 9
Mating in Captivity:
Unlocking Erotic Intelligence
Esther Perel, MA, LMFT

The story of sex in committed modern couples is one that often tells of a dwindling desire that includes a long list of sexual alibis, claiming to explain the inescapable death of Eros. The absence of fantasy, the proliferation of pornography and affairs, as well as a lack of understanding of the nature of erotic desire all contribute to the predicament. This workshop examines the cultural pressures that shape domesticated sex and the puzzling inverse correlation between greater emotional intimacy and the loss of sexual desire. Using case examples and video vignettes, Ms. Perel will demonstrate how to help couples draw pleasure from the hidden, the suggestive and the uncanny while also respecting their needs for safety and stability. We will explore how to grant the body its profound capacities for communicating in its own language, how couples can voice their erotic longings and move beyond their familiar comfort zone into an expansive, fully charged sexuality. This model applies to young, old, married and not, heterosexual and same sex couples.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the tension between the two fundamental human needs of security and adventure.
2) To describe how to draw pleasure from the hidden and mysterious while respecting needs for safety and stability.

Take the Couples Conference Home...

Presentations are professionally audio recorded at the Conference and available at the onsite Recording Store, located in the Pre-function Area of the San Jose Ballroom.
Anthropologist Helen Fisher will examine the biological and behavioral interactions between three primary brain systems for mating and reproduction: the sex drive, romantic love and attachment. She will discuss her brain studies (fMRI) of romantic love and rejection in love to explain the biological underpinnings of love at first sight, abandonment rage, romantic addictions and some crimes of passion. She will discuss her newest research, using data on two million members of the Internet dating/relationship site Chemistry.com, to give a theory for why men and women fall in love with one person rather than another. She proposes that humans have evolved four basic biological variants of personality (referring to these behavioral syndromes as the Explorer, Builder, Negotiator and Director), associated with the neurochemicals dopamine, serotonin, estrogen and testosterone. She will discuss the genetic and physiological underpinnings and specific traits associated with each type. Dr. Fisher will conclude with a discussion of the assets and deficits of each type of biological match.

Educational Objectives:
1) To name the four bio-behavioral syndromes of personality.
2) To describe how to determine biological type.

In this workshop, participants will take Fisher’s 56-item questionnaire and discuss the specific biological traits (positive and negative) associated with her four bio-behavioral types, the Explorer, Builder, Negotiator and Director. She will then explore in depth the assets and deficits of each type of biological match. The workshop concludes with a discussion of the assets and deficits of each type of biological match.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the vocabulary of each bio-behavioral type.
2) Given a bio-behavioral type client, describe the vocabulary to use to reach that specific client.

High conflict and chronically distresses add to each others’ trauma while triggering historical trauma. Reducing, calming or eliminating the emotional triggers is an essential part of changing their negative ingrained patterns. See a live demonstration and/or experience a process to bring about immediate relief of painful memories (and sometimes) not even having to talk about them.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe two ways to work directly with the limbic system to reduce trauma.
2) To describe an intervention to help a fighting couple regain a constructive track.
The Loving/Warring Brain:
How the Brain, Mind and Body Interacts and Reacts to Intimacy
Stan Tatkin, PsyD

Is our brain built for love or war, connection or self-preservation? The attachment drive for a secure base involves neurological and neuro-endocrine systems and subsystems that determine such things as proximity seeking and contact maintenance. Couples most commonly enter therapy due to repeated, anticipated, and intense periods of mutual dysregulation whereby attachment injuries and adaptations become reanimated. In order to make the most of attachment theory, the psychotherapist must incorporate a working knowledge of the neurobiological processes that underlie all primary attachment relationships.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe how to identify and treat dysregulated couples.
2) To describe two interventions that promote interactive regulation.

Key Concepts from Neuroscience That Influence Your Couples Work
Louis Cozolino, PhD, Peter Pearson, PhD, Stan Tatkin, PsyD

Educational Objective: To describe the key concepts of Neuroscience.

Couples from a Tourist Lens:
A Multicultural Approach on Sexuality
Esther Perel, MA, LMFT

Couples’ expectations about the role of sexuality in intimate relationships have changed dramatically over the past 40 years. We will explore the main ideas of the romantic ideal: how we want our partner to fulfill our needs for connection, belonging and continuity, as well as give the sense of transcendence, mystery and passion. Examining the cultural values of love and respect, freedom and responsibility, and interdependence vs. autonomy, we will map a culturally relevant approach to work with the dilemmas of desire in couples. We also will probe the difference between clearly assigned gender role repartition and the post-feminist egalitarian model.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe underlying cultural dynamics that may underlie a couple’s erotic impasse.
2) Given erotic and emotional stalemates in a couple, describe three ways to help them become more flexible.
Addiction to “Alone Time”:
Avoidant Attachment, Narcissism, and a One-Person Psychology within a Two-Person Psychological System
Stan Tatkin, PsyD

Comparisons have been made between severe avoidant attachment and disorders of the self such as antisocial personality, schizoid personality, and narcissistic personality. Each of these disorders, including avoidant attachment, can be grouped together as one-person psychological organizations in that they operate outside of a truly interactive dyadic system, and primarily rely upon themselves for stimulation and calming via auto-regulation. The chronic need for “alone time” can take many surprising forms throughout the lifespan, directly impacting romantic relationships.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe an appropriate intervention for keeping an avoidant patient in treatment.
2) To identify physical approach and avoidance behaviors that often accompany attachment organization.

The Evolutionary Necessity of Couples Therapy
Louis Cozolino, PhD

In the course of human evolution, our brains have been shaped by countless adaptational challenges resulting in an organ functioning simultaneously in the conscious present and our primitive and hidden past. This presentation will explore aspects of the human brain which make sustained intimate relationships both possible and problematic.

Educational Objectives:
1) To describe the neurological substrate of bonding and attachment.
2) To describe the impact of distortions inherent in human information processing have on intimate relationships.

Irvin Yalom's newest book,
Staring at the Sun:
Overcoming the Terror of Death is an unflinching look into the abyss of death, and a handbook for facing the inevitability of life.

"Irvin Yalom has written a beautiful and courageous book—a book that comforts even as it explores and confronts death. Yalom helps us understand that we must all come to grips with a paradox: the physicality of death destroys us; the idea of death saves us."

— George Vaillant, Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School

One of America’s finest therapists guides us through one of life’s most challenging tasks in this profoundly helpful book. It will benefit anyone who reads it.”
